

Green Evolution Tour with the Green Building Institute

Mark your calendars! On April 3rd, 2010, the Green Building Institute will host a Green Evolution Tour of Bungalow Row.

The tour will be co-hosted by Dave Woolley-Wilson, Executive Director of The Green Building Institute, and Christian Gladu, home designer extraordinaire.

The tour will follow the development of the 8 homes making up the Bungalow Row enclave. The homes are a microcosm of the green building movement, as each subsequent home incorporated additional green features, culminating in The Incredibly Green Home of Chevy Chase.

The tour will start at 5120 Fairglen, a home currently under construction that features SIPS panels and vertical ground loop geothermal HVAC. The home is slated to be LEED certified.

We've set a date of April 3rd, (hopefully) at the peak of the cherry blossoms.

Space will be limited so click here to register.
